...Setting a course for others to follow.

The U.S. EPA congratulates these industry leaders in implementing and promoting voluntary, cost-effective measures to reduce emissions of methane, a potent greenhouse gas. By working in partnership with the Natural Gas STAR Program, these and more than 110 other oil and gas companies are positively addressing climate change and energy security through improved operational efficiency.

To learn more about becoming a leader in environmental stewardship and reducing global climate change impacts, contact the Natural Gas STAR Program at (202) 343-9386/ (202) 343-9669. Or, visit our Web site at epa.gov/gasstar.
